

NO FREE WOOL.

The Philadelphia Record tells what can be done with free wool: "With free wool the manufacturers in the United States could compete with the manufacturers of the world in the quality and price of their woolen or worsted products. The home manufacturers could not only keep the home markets to themselves, but they could cope with the manufacturers of Great Britain and of Continental Europe in their own markets. If wool should be admitted free of duty it would make little difference whether the tariff tax on woolen or worsted goods should be high or low. It would not pay to import such goods."

There is no grounds whatever for these assertions. The duties on woolen goods average about seventy per cent. Foreign manufacturers pay this duty and sell their goods in American market which is stocked with American-made goods. Now it is asserted that if the raw material was made free our manufacturers could not only successfully compete for our own market without the aid of a tariff, but could cope with the manufacturers of Great Britain and Continental Europe in their own markets. Admitting that the American manufacturer pays more for his raw material on account of the tariff, the excess is trifling in comparison with the reduction that must be made in order to compete with the manufacturers of Great Britain and Continental Europe either in the American or European market. If the admission of wool free, as is proposed by the President, should result in the abandonment of the wool industry in the United States, it is not at all certain that wool would be much cheaper after the American productions had disappeared than it now is. The Australian wool-growers, seeing that they had no competition to contend with in the United States might combine to raise the price to former rates. But if we admit that the wool manufacturer would get his wool with the present tariff off, it would not enable him to compete with manufacturers who buy wool at the same price and labor at forty cents less.—Gazette.

PACIFIC COAST ITEMS.

—A wreck on the Southern Pacific occurred Tuesday near Separ. Thursday a heavy freight train was wrecked east of Benson, A. T., one running into another.

—Recent orders issued from the War Department direct the construction of permanent buildings for four companies at the military post at the San Carlos Indian Reservation. The estimated cost is $150,000.

—A successful test of the electric street car system was made at San Diego. Thursday. The motor crowded with people, moved up a grade of about four hundred and forty feet to the mile with perfect ease.

—Joseph Garrison, the noted Government scout and trailer, once the companion of Kit Carson, and widely known as "Buckskin Joe" of many of Ned Buntline's novels, was in Salt Lake Thursday, en route to California.

—A tidal wave swept over North Beach from Ilwaco to Oysterville, W. T., Monday morning, the sea advancing further than before known. It came up to the windows of the summer cottages nearest to the ocean and scattered considerable drift among them.

—It is reported in Pleasant Valley that the ranch owned by Samuel Yeo of Grass Valley has been rented to a family of negroes, the children of which will attend the Pleasant Valley School, and the Pleasant Valley people are getting excited. They want no colored folks.

—Advices from Ensenada tell of the arrival there of the brig Tropic Bird, lumber-laden, from Eureka. She was nearly lost on the 21st inst., and was abandoned by her crew, but the international steamer City of Topeka happened along, and taking the brig in tow, brought her into port.

—A hundred farmers and rich land-owners of Yolo county have organized into a syndicate, calling it the Northern Belt Development Company. Each member pledges himself to plant from ten to twenty acres of fruit or grapes the coming season, under the penalty of making a free deed of that much land to the syndicate, the proceeds of which are to be applied to the establishment of an orphan asylum in Woodland.
